1st Plaster House - Evans

The house was built by AC Wirt for his bride Susan M. Kimball, daughter of Nathan Kimball who was killed in the Vinton Massacre in 1847. Before the day of — & bridges, this was the head of navigation. Trip from Astoria was made in a "pincher" being a flat small open building with a single mast, and a small sail at the stern.

Agustus Wirt

6-27-97

Agustus C. Wirt was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania on Oct. 23, 1814. Mr. Wirt, a tailor by trade, married Jerusha Brennan in Bloomington, Ohio in 1840. Jerusha was born in Indiana in 1822.

The Wirts moved to Illinois where their first child, Andrew, was born in October 1842. In the spring of 1843, they started for Oregon, but got only as far as Council Bluffs, Iowa, because the leader of their company took the wrong road. They spent the winter in Savannah, Mo. In March 1844, their daughter, Annie, was born. In June 1844, they resumed their journey and arrived safely in the vicinity of where Portland now stands on Nov. 10, 1844. They spent the winter in Oregon City.

During the winter, Wirt and two other men hired an Indian canoe and came down to Astoria and Clatsop to look for a place to locate. Wirt found an old friend, Mr. Perry, on Clatsop and Perry, Trask and Morrison offered to give Wirt a portion of their claims if he would be a neighbor. This generous offer was accepted and Wirt at once set about building his log cabin located about three miles south of Lexington (where Warrenton High School is now).

Early in the spring of 1845, Wirt employed Samuel "Ticky" Smith to move his family to Clatsop in his plunger. Smith landed at the Indian village where Fort Stevens now stands. From there, Elbridge Trask moved Wirt's family to their new home on Clatsop. Two more children, Noyes and Mary, were born in their Clatsop home.

In the fall of 1848, Wirt left for the California gold rush where he spent six months and returned with $3,000 in gold dust.

In the summer of 1849, Wirt traded his farm to Sam Gardiner for a farm at Fort Clatsop along the Lewis and Clark River. Clatsop was still Indian territory with 15 Clatsop villages and a few of them unfriendly. Mrs. Wirt refused to move out into the country, so Mr. Wirt bought a block - about an acre - in Lexington (now Skipanon) for which he paid $700. The Wirt family moved into a log cabin there and Mrs. Wirt gave birth to their fifth child, Philip, in February 1850.

Mrs. Wirt developed puerperal fever and died. She was one of the first to be laid to rest in the old Clatsop cemetery. Mr. Wirt was left with five children under eight years of age. In August 1850, Wirt married Susan Kimball, who was a survivor of the Whitman massacre when she was 16 years old and witnessed her father being murdered by the Indians.

In 1850, Wirt sold his block in Lexington located where S.E. Anchor Avenue curves into S.E. 13th. David and Hanna Pease, who arrived in Clatsop in September 1849, bought the property from Wirt for $1,200.

Wirt took out Claim #47 which was located at the foot of S.E. 9th and Anchor Avenue. The Wirts began to build their new home about the location where Mike Balensifer's new home is located at 947 S.E. Anchor. A Mr. Walker took the contract to build the home which took him nine months to complete. He was paid $900 and board to build the home. The 3,000 bricks for the chimney came from around the Horn and cost $165. The lumber cost $75 a thousand in the rough and came from the mill on the east bank of the O'Hanna River, near Seaside. The house was 32-foot square and two stories high with eight rooms, nine-foot ceilings and a parlor 16-foot square. Mr.

Evans plastered the house throughout, making it the first plastered house in Clatsop County.

In the early days, many dancing parties and good suppers were enjoyed at the Wirt home. Agustus and Susan had four children, John, Hattie, Ione and Omer, all born in the 1850s.

The Wirts kept a hotel and horses and wagons for hire for 25 years. Their place was called Clatsop House Inn and boarding house-grocery store. In the late 1860s, he operated a horse-drawn stage transporting tourists south to Summer House located where Seaside is now.

The Wirt home became a polling place at election time.

Agustus was one of the 19 men who voted at Yellowbank, "Lexington" on June 1, 1846.

Wirt and his wife lived together in their home for 52 years. Susan died Feb. 29, 1905 and was the last survivor of the Whitman massacre. Agustus died of a heart attack on Sept. 21, 1905 at the age of 91 and is laid to rest at Ocean View Cemetery.

Hello Lloyd,

Enclosed are two set of the photos showing the Dellmoor station that I promised for you. I don't have Brian's address so would appreciate it if you could get a set to him also.

For your information, these photos were taken by A.M. Prentiss on April 4, 1918. He was one of the photographers that the Army's Spruce Production Division used to record their activities during WWI when they were logging spruce for airplanes.

Thanks much for your time in showing me around this past weekend. The photos I took showing the old right-of-way on your place turned out quite good.

Regards,

Lloyd M. Palmer

This is the home of Emilie "Millie" Bosshart and Anna M. & Allen H. Tetlow. The women were sisters. It was purchased by the three of them in 1925 for $4000 from George Schmidt who built the house in 1915. Anna and Allen's only child, Anne Marie, was 9 years old when they moved in. The maternal parents also come to live with them in their later years.

D. K. Warren, a wealthy lumberman, owned a vast tract of land before the turn of the century. He envisioned that this area would become a big seaport. So he planned the town of Warrenton. First he laid out the main street and planted poplar trees down its length. Then he offered free land to anyone who would build a business or a substantial house.

Their father, Jakob Bosshart, an immigrant from Switzerland, built the first business in 1899 next to the railroad tracks that used to run east and west through the north end of the business area. It was named The Elk Saloon. He never let anyone over-drink nor behave badly. He also had a blacksmith shop in the back where friends would gather. His wife Anna Frieda came from Germany. They had six children.

Annie was a wonderful cook and homemaker. Her hobby was flower gardening, sewing, quilting and crocheting. She did quality needlework. She worked for many years at the D. K. Warren estate in the cookhouse.

Allen Tetlow worked in a survey boat during their first years of marriage. Then he was hired by the Prouty Lumber and Box Company, working in various capacities including maintaining the engines as engineer or millwright, until retirement. He was a sweet, quiet and stable man.

Millie worked in town as secretary in the sawmill. She loved this work. She had a head for numbers, was so outgoing and witty with customers, and was so efficient that she practically ran the mill herself.

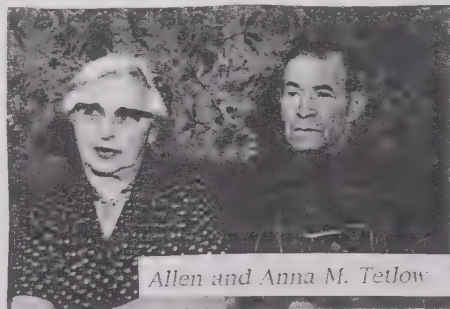

At one time everyone knew Millie, and she could name just about everyone in town too--and their car license numbers. Several young men were taken by her and asked for her hand, but she turned them down preferring to live at home with the family. She became the family chauffeur at age 20 when she bought her first car!

Millie always had an eye for pretty things. When she was working she bought nice things. People enjoyed giving her gifts too, because she was so delighted and grateful. Much of the furniture and needlepoint work came from their sister Elizabeth who died childless of cancer in 1938. Many other nice pieces were given to the family by a Norwegian ship captain who boarded with the family when his ship was in port. These were mostly Oriental objects.

Allen died in 1962 and Anna at age 92 in 1985. Millie lived in this big house alone without her beloved Annie for 13 years. She was able to finish out her life here with the help of wonderful caregivers who were with her the last two and a half years until her death August 6, 2001.

This is a view of the old street at Warrenton in Clatsop County, Oregon, as seen on October 5, 1962. The Seafarer Tavern looks like a ship with its porthole windows. Warrenton was named after an early settler, D.K. Warren, and was platted in 1889. It is just south of the Columbia River and now incorporates what was originally known as Skipanon, or Upper Landing, where passengers & goods were unloaded. Its population in the late 1980's was about 2,500.

HURTS (George & Sadie)
Maggert (Sim Gillian)
N.W. Birch Ave.

Sweet thoughts of home in my mind still cling
 Memories of childhood joy they bring.
 Sisters and brothers and parents, dear,
 Filled the home with love and cheer.

Mother, the pride of the home, still renders
 Sweet services to every member,
 Tho' bent with age, the burdens bear.
 On God, she casts her every care.

Ten children grew to women and men.
 Two in infancy left this world of sin;
 Bowed in sorrow, we laid them away,
 In peaceful sleep, till the Resurrection Day.

A loving Father, a man of zeal
 A man of ambition, and integrity
 Toiled bravely from morn till night
 Fighting life's battles for the right.

As time passed on, many changes came;
 New homes found in other names.
 Brothers claiming for them a wife
 Old Mother Nature tells us "This is life."

Two brothers answered the Country's Call,
 Sorrow and sadness, this brought to all.
 But God's mighty hand safely led them home
 Across the angry waves and foam.

Two brothers answered God's call to man
 to proclaim the Gospel to every land,
 Leading lost souls to a Christ divine,
 Making the world seem more sublime.

A sister, two brothers, and Father dear
 Have broken the earthly circle here.
 We long to meet them on the golden street
 Where the family circle will be complete.

1976

Now many years have gone by
 Since Father's death in thirty-five.
 The Lord spared Mother five more years,
 Making nineteen and forty a sad and lonely year.

A Mother, more unselfish you could never find
 Sacrificing for others, cheerful and kind.
 For 86 years she lived for family and friends
 God gave her strength, life's battles to win..

In 1958 on June the 7th
 Our brother George was called to Heaven
 He left this world, leaving children three.
 Two of them serving Christ, in the ministry.

God has been good to the family, at large.
With seven grandsons answering God's call
The other living grand children are 10 in number
Doing the work of their choice, which is most wonderful.

The year 1968 brought many heart aches and tears.
Two dear brothers-- Walter and Ollie, the youngest in years
To other with a daughter-in-law Boss and a grandson, Edwin Joined Father and Mother in the beauties of Heaven.

The silent Reaper came next in 1970
To take his servant Robert, to his home in Heaven.
He preached his word, and loved him dearly,
Led many to Christ - prepared for Eternity.

A loving sister Lydia was called this same year,
Another year of heart aches and tears
Her life was spent mainly helping others
It's so hard to live up Sisters and Brothers.

The last visit of the Angel of death came in '73
To take the last Sister of mine, at the age of 89.
She complained so little, everything was fine.
Gathered will be remembered as a favorite of man-kind.

Now the year 1976 finds me alone
My dear husband, Homer and our little Sophus have joined the happy throng.

Our living children: Flossie, Edgar and Beulah, are my joy and pride,
Dear Lord, keep them ever by thy side.
Make them goodly examples for the thirteen
Grand children and fourteen greats,
That they may be prepared to enter the Pearly Gates.

Our in-laws, Claude, Dorothy and Johnson,
We think of as our own.
May the Lord grant them strength and health-
Which is better by far than earthly wealth.

Now at the age of 87, Nature tells me the time isn't long
Till my days on earth are through
Wish I could say "I've spent them wisely"
But I know I've failed- "Forgive me, kindly."

I know not the hour of his coming
Or when from this world, I'll be free
But I know that sooner or later
My Saviour will call for me.
